READING COMPREHENSION

Learning a Language

When you speak a foreign language is normal to have an accent, it's ok, other people can usually understand. It's a good idea to listen to cassettes and try to imitate other speakers, to make your pronunciation better.

If you see a new word and you don't know what it means you can sometimes guess the meaning from words you know, or you can look up the word in a dictionary. A lot of good language learners try not to translate things from their first language.

Translation is sometimes a good idea, but tries not to think in your mother language if you can.

It's also normal to make mistakes. When the teacher corrects you a mistake in your writing or your speaking, think about it and try to see why it is wrong. But it's more important to communicate, so don't be afraid of speaking.
