HOLY WATER AND WEDDING DRESSES: THE WEIRDEST ITEMS LEFT BEHIND AT UK AIRPORTS

If you have left anything behind at an airport, it will be some comfort to learn that you _____ the only one.

At Heathrow, 26,543 items went missing between May 2015 and May 2016 – that's 2,212 every month – with a record of 381 lost items in one day. The study by Travel Supermarket found that Tuesday _____ the best day of the week because passengers were most likely to lose something.

Among the belongings left behind by their owners were a roll of carpet, a fishing rod, a wedding dress _____ a bottle of holy water. Thousands of pieces of property mislaid each week are mostly made up of clothing, iPhones and tablets, glasses and sunglasses, hats, Passports and keys!

_____ London City airport – a popular choice for business fliers – a quarter of the lost property items are designer, from the likes of Dior and Prada. London Gatwick meanwhile was the airport where one passenger misplaced a Swarovski crystal pen.

Based on the amount of jewellery retrieved at UK airports, you are most likely to lose your wedding ring at Heathrow and your engagement ring at Gatwick.

Fortunately for the owners of the above, statistics show that 85 per cent of lost property is reunited with its owner within 48 hours. If an item _____ returned within 90 days, it usually ends up at auction house, with profits of the sale going to charity.
